 2. Includes potential production estimates from Toroparu, which is based on a preliminary economic assessment effective October 21, 2025, which contemplates a 7.0 Mtpa operation over a 21.3-year mine life with average annual gold production of approximately 235 koz at a base case gold price of US$3,000/oz. The preliminary economic assessment is preliminary in nature and includes inferred mineral resources that are considered too speculative geologically to have the economic considerations applied to them that would enable them to be categorized as mineral reserves, and there is no certainty that the preliminary economic assessment will be realized. 1. 2026 cash cost and AISC guidance are provided separately for Owner Mining and CMP operations, given their different primary cost drivers. Owner Mining costs are primarily driven by conventional mining expenditures such as labour, consumables (including explosives and fuel), and power. In contrast, CMP costs are mainly determined by the cost of purchasing mill feed, which depends on material volume, recoverable gold grade, and the prevailing spot price of gold. Given the current rise in gold prices, forecasting the cost of CMP operations is more challenging, making this distinction important. As a result, we believe the performance of CMP operations is best measured on a sales margin basis to provide a clearer representation of its financial performance and contribution to the Company's overall results.
 2. 2026 cash cost and All in sustaining cost (AISC) forecasts are based on a gold price of US$4,400/oz and USD to Colombian peso exchange rate of 3,800
